Bucknell University Among Peace Corps' Top Volunteer-Producing Colleges & Universities in 2014

No. 10 Bucknell jumps 13 spots from 2013 ranking

NEW YORK, N.Y., Feb. 11, 2014 – The Peace Corps today released the 2014 rankings of the top volunteer-producing colleges and universities across the country. This year, Bucknell University ranked No. 10 among small schools, with 13 undergraduate alumni currently volunteering worldwide. The No. 10 position marks a significant increase in rank from 2013, when Bucknell held the No. 23 spot.

Bucknell alumni currently serve as volunteers in Dominican Republic, Liberia, Malawi, Mozambique, Nepal, Panama, Paraguay, Senegal, South Africa, Tanzania, Uganda and Vanuatu. They work in sectors including agriculture, education, environment, health and youth development.

“The same passion that launched the Peace Corps more than 50 years ago fuels progress in developing countries today thanks to the leadership and creativity that college graduates bring to their Peace Corps service,” Peace Corps Acting Director Carrie Hessler-Radelet said. “The unique Peace Corps experience helps recent graduates cultivate highly sought-after skills that will launch their careers in today’s global economy.”

Since the first days of the Peace Corps, 269 Bucknell alumni have traveled abroad to serve as volunteers.

“When I was a sophomore at Bucknell, I participated in the Bucknell Brigade, a service-learning trip to Nicaragua. Although I knew that I wanted volunteer service to be an important part of my life before this trip, the Brigade provided a great introduction to international development work, and I knew that it was something I wanted to continue,” said John Trimmer, a Bucknell alumnus who is currently serving as a Peace Corps volunteer in Uganda.

“In the small town where I am placed in Uganda, I work with a small organization called Brick by Brick,” he explained. “We’ve constructed or renovated sixteen classrooms, built or renovated two library buildings, constructed two new kitchens, each containing two fuel-efficient rocket stoves, installed one five-stance pit latrine and two demonstration Eco-San toilets and built forty rainwater tanks in areas throughout the country.”

Trimmer, a Lewisberry resident, is one of 284 Keystone State residents serving overseas. In 2013, Pennsylvania was the No. 8 Peace Corps volunteer-producing state in the nation.

Service in the Peace Corps is a life-defining, hands-on leadership experience that offers volunteers the opportunity to travel to the farthest corners of the world and make a lasting difference in the lives of others. Peace Corps volunteers live and work at the community level and promote a better understanding between Americans and the people they serve, while at the same time becoming global citizens.

When they return home, volunteers bring knowledge and experiences that give them a competitive edge for 21st century jobs and advanced educational opportunities. They give back to their own communities and enrich the lives of those around them, helping to strengthen international ties and increase our country's global competitiveness.

The Peace Corps has eight regional recruitment offices across the United States that work closely with prospective volunteers to ensure that all Americans who want to serve have the opportunity to do so. The Northeast regional recruitment office serves Bucknell, and Peace Corps recruiters are based throughout the region. About the Peace Corps: As the preeminent international service organization of the United States, the Peace Corps sends Americans abroad to tackle the most pressing needs of people around the world. Peace Corps volunteers work at the grassroots level with local governments, schools, communities, small businesses and entrepreneurs to develop sustainable solutions that address challenges in education, health, economic development, agriculture, environment and youth development. When they return home, volunteers bring their knowledge and experiences – and a global outlook – back to the United States that enriches the lives of those around them. President John F. Kennedy established the Peace Corps in 1961 to foster a better understanding among Americans and people of other countries. Since then, more than 215,000 Americans of all ages have served in 139 countries worldwide. Visit www.peacecorps.gov to learn more.
