VISION, MISSION, AND VALUES

VISION

Provide high impact work products that agency management acts upon to increase the Peace Corps' efficiency and effectiveness.

MISSION

Through audits, evaluations, and investigations, OIG provides independent oversight of agency programs and operations in support of the goals set forth in the Peace Corps Act while making the best use of taxpayer dollars.

OIG:

- Promotes integrity, efficiency, effectiveness and economy;
- Prevents and detects waste, fraud, abuse and mismanagement;
- Identifies risk and vulnerabilities and offers expert assistance to improve the Peace Corps' programs and operations

Authority:

Established in February 1989, OIG receives its legal authority from the Inspector General Act of 1978, as amended. The law requires that OIG fully and currently inform the Peace Corps Director and the Congress about problems and deficiencies identified by OIG relating to the administration of agency programs and operations.

CORE VALUES AND GUIDING PRINCIPLES

In accomplishing its mission, OIG is committed to:

Excellence: Issuing well-supported, high impact work products, which are accurate, relevant and reliable.

Professionalism: Meeting professional standards and effectively using knowledge, skills, and experience to perform duties with integrity.

Positive Change: Making value-added recommendations to address challenges and issues with due consideration of the Peace Corps' mission and goals.

Independence and Integrity: Operating independently from the agency while maintaining a professional relationship with management and adhering to the highest standards of ethics and accountability.

Growth and Improvement: Promoting professional growth and development among OIG staff; supporting continual learning, self-assessment, and office enhancement.

STRATEGY STATEMENT

OIG will conduct audits, evaluations and investigations addressing the following priority areas:

Kate Puzey Volunteer Protection Act of 2011¹. OIG will prioritize work related to implementation of the Act. Given the requirement for multiple OIG reports over a number of years and the breadth, complexity and impact of the law on agency operations, OIG will place special emphasis on oversight of the agency's implementation of the Act.

Management Challenges. OIG work products will place emphasis on these items which are identified annually in the Performance and Accountability Report as the most significant challenges facing the Peace Corps.

Agency-wide Process, Programs, and Systems. OIG will continue its focus on agency wide systemic issues or functional areas that affect multiple systems or posts. Topical, functional or systemic approaches to audits and evaluations can better leverage OIG's limited resources and increase the impact of its work products. In particular OIG will review the adequacy of management oversight, internal controls, compliance with laws and regulations, and support provided by headquarters.

Volunteer Safety and Security and Medical Care. These two areas are essential to Volunteer support. OIG will continue to follow up on past work performed and will address new and emerging focus areas.

Overseas Post Operations. The Peace Corps must ensure that post staffing, site development, Volunteer training and support, and related infrastructure are sufficiently robust to support the Peace Corps' mission, existing or new programs. Particular attention will be directed at new country entry assessments and start up operations to determine adequacy of planning, staffing, support and other resources.

Stakeholder Communication: Inform all stakeholders (agency staff, Volunteers, Congress, and the general public) about the role, work and resources of OIG, including promotion of the OIG Hotline.
